ORDER

And now, this 5th day of June, 2017, upon consideration of Plaintiff's Motion for Default Judgment, ECF No. 13, it is ORDERED that Plaintiff's Motion is DENIED, without prejudice to Plaintiff's ability to renew its motion in accordance with this Order.<sup>1</sup>

BY THE COURT:

/s/ Joseph F. Leeson, Jr.
JOSEPH F. LEESON, JR.
United States District Judge

<sup>1</sup> This is an action to recover Defendant's unpaid mortgage. Defendant has failed to timely respond to the United States' complaint, and it seeks the entry of a default judgment in the amount of $143,920.72, as well as equitable relief to allow it to foreclose on the Defendant's property. According to the United States, the monetary amount it seeks consists of $50,358.65 in unpaid principal, $15,176.58 in interest, $57,875.12 in "interest recapture," $1,541.05 for escrow fees, $2,925.45 for "fees required with payoff funds," and $16,043.87 for "fees currently assessed." The outstanding principal amount is evidenced by an acceleration notice attached as an exhibit to the complaint, see Compl. Ex. D, but the only support the United States offers for its entitlement to the remaining amounts is an affidavit from its counsel attesting to the fact that the United States is entitled to these amounts based on his review of "certain records of the U.S. Department of Agriculture." Puleo Aff. ¶4, ECF No. 13.

It is well-settled that a defaulting defendant admits the factual allegations against it except those with respect to damages, Sparks v. Duckrey Enters., Inc., No. 05-2178, 2010 WL 8770223, at *1 (E.D. Pa. Aug. 6, 2010) (citing Fehlhaber v. Indian Trails, Inc., 425 F.2d 715, 717 (3d Cir. 1970) (per curiam)), which means that a default does not relieve the plaintiff of the obligation to prove the amount it claims to be owed. But the attestations of the United States' counsel that he has seen documents supporting the particular amounts the United States seeks to recover are not competent evidence from which the Court can ascertain that it is entitled to those amounts. Nor has the United States explained why it is legally entitled to each of the categories of interest and fees that it seeks.

Accordingly, the United States' Motion is denied, without prejudice to its ability to file a revised motion that (1) explains why the United States is legally entitled to each category of interest and fee that it seeks (such as "interest recapture" and "fees required with payoff funds"), and (2) is accompanied by evidence that shows how the United States arrived at each of those figures.
